Case No. F-2015-06322

Segments: IPS-0015
 IPS-0016
 IPS-0017
 IPS-0018

Mr. William F. Marshall
425 Third Street SW, Suite 800
Washington, DC 20024

Dear Mr. Marshall:

I refer to our letter dated July 29, 2016, regarding the release of certain Department of State material under the Freedom of Information Act (the "FOIA"), 5 U.S.C. § 552. The processing of records responsive to your request is ongoing and has yielded an additional 279 documents. After reviewing these documents, we have determined that 89 may be released in full, 185 may be released with excisions, and 5 must be withheld in full. All released material is enclosed.

An enclosure explains the FOIA exemptions and other grounds for withholding material. Where we have made excisions, the applicable exemptions are marked on each document. All non-exempt material that is reasonably segregable from the exempt material has been released. For the documents withheld in full, we have cited FOIA Exemptions 5 and 6, 5 U.S.C. §§552 (b)(5) and (b)(6).

We will keep you informed as your case progresses. If you have any questions, your attorney may contact Trial Attorney, James Bickford, at (202) 305-7632 or James.Bickford@usdoj.gov. Please refer to the case number shown above in all correspondence about this case.

Sincerely,

Eric F. Stein, Acting Co-Director
Office of Information Programs and Services

Enclosure: As stated

The Freedom of Information Act (5 USC 552)

FOIA Exemptions

- (b)(1) Withholding specifically authorized under an Executive Order in the interest of national defense or foreign policy, and properly classified. E.O. 12958, as amended, includes the following classification categories:
- 1.4(a) Military plans, systems, or operations
 - 1.4(b) Foreign government information
 - 1.4(c) Intelligence activities, sources or methods, or cryptology
 - 1.4(d) Foreign relations or foreign activities of the US, including confidential sources
 - 1.4(e) Scientific, technological, or economic matters relating to national security, including defense against transnational terrorism
 - 1.4(f) U.S. Government programs for safeguarding nuclear materials or facilities
 - 1.4(g) Vulnerabilities or capabilities of systems, installations, infrastructures, projects, plans, or protection services relating to US national security, including defense against transnational terrorism
 - 1.4(h) Information on weapons of mass destruction
- (b)(2) Related solely to the internal personnel rules and practices of an agency
- (b)(3) Specifically exempted from disclosure by statute (other than 5 USC 552), for example:
- ARMEX Arms Export Control Act, 22 USC 2778(e)
 - CIA Central Intelligence Agency Act of 1949, 50 USC 403(g)
 - EXPORT Export Administration Act of 1979, 50 App. USC 2411(c)(1)
 - FSA Foreign Service Act of 1980, 22 USC 4003 & 4004
 - INA Immigration and Nationality Act, 8 USC 1202(f)
 - IRAN Iran Claims Settlement Act, Sec 505, 50 USC 1701, note
- (b)(4) Privileged/confidential trade secrets, commercial or financial information from a person
- (b)(5) Interagency or intra-agency communications forming part of the deliberative process, attorney-client privilege, or attorney work product
- (b)(6) Information that would constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy
- (b)(7) Information compiled for law enforcement purposes that would:
- (A) interfere with enforcement proceedings
 - (B) deprive a person of a fair trial
 - (C) constitute an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy
 - (D) disclose confidential sources
 - (E) disclose investigation techniques
 - (F) endanger life or physical safety of an individual
- (b)(8) Prepared by or for a government agency regulating or supervising financial institutions
- (b)(9) Geological and geophysical information and data, including maps, concerning wells

Other Grounds for Withholding

- NR Material not responsive to a FOIA request, excised with the agreement of the requester

Huma,
 I have not heard back from you since June 8th about my request below on behalf of Peabody Energy. If we could have 20 mins with HRC, it would be wonderful. Can this be worked out please? As you may know, I have been in contact with Capricia since April too. Can you help please?
 I really appreciate your help

 Subject: Meeting Request - Peabody Energy

Dear Huma,
 I spoke to Capricia Marshall about this and she wanted me to send this to you directly to intervene if possible. Huma, Peabody Energy is the largest coal company in the US, and they have partnerships in China, Mongolia and Australia. All pertinent details on Peabody are listed below.

Please know that I am a consultant to Peabody Energy and Dick Gephardt's firm, the Gephardt Group, does their lobbying.

On April 1, Peabody Energy VP, Cartan Sumner wrote to Lona Valmoro to request a meeting. Lona called me back the following week to tell me that it couldn't be done then. Capricia told me that we should wait a few months since HRC was trying not to schedule meetings for her first six months.

Huma, I need your help now to intervene please. We need this meeting with Secretary Clinton, who has been there now for nearly six months. This is, by the way, my first request. I really would appreciate your help on this. It should go without saying that the Peabody folks came to Dick and I because of our relationship with the Clintons.

I would really appreciate you getting this scheduled for their CEO.

My cell is [REDACTED]

Thanks for your attention. Hope you are well.

Ms. Lona Valmoro
 U.S. Department of State
 Washington, DC

Dear Ms. Valmoro:

My name is Cartan Sumner and I serve as Vice President of International Government Relations with Peabody Energy based in our St. Louis, Missouri headquarters. The purpose of this e-mail is to respectfully request your assistance in scheduling a meeting for U.S. Secretary of State Clinton with Peabody's Chairman and Chief Executive Officer Gregory H. Boyce and Peabody's Senior Vice President of Government Relations Fredrick D. Palmer.

By way of background, Peabody Energy (NYSE: BTU) is the world's largest private sector coal company. We own majority interests in 30 coal mining operations located in the U.S. and Australia and serve more than 300 customers on six continents. Peabody's coal products fuel 10% of U.S. and 2% of worldwide electricity generation. We are also pursuing large-scale open cut mining opportunities in China and Mongolia through our development offices in Beijing and Ulanbaatar.

Obtained via FOIA by Judicial Watch, Inc.

In addition to our core mining activities, Peabody is advancing the development of clean coal technologies around the world. In China, we are the sole non-Chinese partner in the country's signature climate project -- GreenGen -- which is constructing a near-zero emissions coal-fueled power plant with carbon capture and storage (CCS). In Australia, we are a Founding Member of the Global CCS Institute recently formed by Prime Minister Rudd and participate in the coal industry's voluntary COAL21 Fund which supports clean coal technology demonstration projects in Australia. In the United States, we are a member of the FutureGen Industrial Alliance working in partnership with the Department of Energy as well as a financial sponsor of the Consortium for Clean Coal Utilization established by Washington University in St. Louis in 2008.

It would be a great privilege and honor for Peabody to have the opportunity to meet with Secretary Clinton and provide a briefing on our company's worldwide activities. In particular, we would look forward to updating the Secretary on Peabody's clean energy and sustainability initiatives in the U.S., Australia and Asia as well as our ongoing interaction with senior officials with the governments of China and Mongolia.

Thank you for your consideration and I look forward very much to your response. Please do not hesitate to contact me should you have any questions or require further information. I am working this week from our Brisbane, Australia offices and am therefore most easily reachable via e-mail or on my mobile number.

Sincerely,
Cartan Sumner

Whenever you do something big on TV we all hear from lots of folks saying you did great. But this time is noticeably different. First, people across the spectrum - DC insiders, reporters, staff, ex-staff, friends of friends, WH folks, etc - were blown away. Second, people were REALLY moved by the last segment, three people even told me they teared up. I'm guessing and hoping you hear this directly from random folks in the coming days.

And I think because it's been a lousy couple of weeks for the Admin, with mixed messages and bad news, coupled with many people seeing you for the first time for an extended period talking about the job and your relationship with the President, and that combo was probably the most powerful reminder since your speech in Denver that you're in a class all your own (including the President who became enmeshed in the Gates incident)

That you didn't wait for the envoy question was key, you turned it into a strength. What you said about the President and how you said it, one can't help but think how much of a team player you are and how remarkably you've adapted to the role.

You were definitely on your game. You either threw a perfect game - or at least a no hitter. So this couldn't have gone better, achieved everything we needed to times 10, and comes on the heels of a great 10 days.

Will be interesting to see the storyline that emanates from this. Because there was no substantive news, it'll be a focus on style - especially saving Biden.

Secretary Clinton –

I understand you are going to Kenya next week and while I know the trip is primarily focused on trade issues, I wanted to flag an issue for you because I know it is near and dear to your heart.

Kenya has one of the strictest anti-abortion laws in Africa – it is illegal unless a woman's life is at risk and criminalizes both the woman and the provider. Two years ago, Kenyan authorities imprisoned a doctor and two nurses, falsely accusing them of providing illegal abortions. After a year in prison, the providers were found innocent and released, but it galvanized the legal and provider community who formed a coalition to make abortion less restrictive. It will come as no surprise to you that, as a result of their abortion law, Kenya has one of the highest maternal mortality rates in all of Africa, with an estimated 800 women a day seeking the procedure, often through dangerous means.

Kenya is restarting a long-stalled constitutional review process and they hope to produce a final Constitution by next year. Religious groups are on a concerted crusade to include new language in the Constitution which would codify that "life begins at conception". The current Constitution is largely silent on the issue. If this fetal personhood amendment goes forward, it would place Kenya in the small community of nations with such a provision. It would clearly mark Kenya as out of step with countries attempting to institutionalize the African Union's Maputo Protocol, one of the most progressive regional documents on women, development and reproductive rights, and with the vast majority of African countries in general. For a country trying to regain the momentum of stability and success it enjoyed until recently, such a policy imposition would be a regression for women's rights and for the country writ large.

I went to Kenya last month to work with the coalition that has formed to strategize against the Constitutional amendment and to work toward a less restrictive abortion law. I also visited several of our clinics and providers in Nairobi and in nearby villages where Planned Parenthood has programs to train providers in post abortion care. You have seen this a million times in your travels around the world, so I don't need to tell you how poignant the stories were of the lives saved and lost, the bravery in standing up to constant government harassment, and the fear of what this potential Constitutional amendment will mean to the provision of safe medical services. I know it is asking a lot, but if there is any way that you could draw attention to this issue when you are in Kenya, you would be even more of my personal hero than you already are. It is our hope that if Kenya knows the world is watching they may be more careful in how they proceed. Of course we would be happy to help you in any way if you decide you want to do something on this while you are there. There is also a Congressional delegation going to Kenya the week of August 8th and we are working on them to have a side meeting on this issue as well.

As always, thank you so much for all you do. We are all so grateful that you are there! All best, Laurie

Hi Huma,

Greetings from sunny Singapore. I hope this note finds you well.

[REDACTED]

Looks like I'll be in DC on the 13th of August as well as the 15 and 16th of September. I wonder that would be a window for setting up a brief face to face meeting with our friend. I've been doing my thing as gadfly for a national innovation agenda and now, via my new NGO, working the global angle of innovation stewardship and collaboration. (See attached NY Times article). I'd like to update HRC and see what the opportunities might be for catalyzing a renewed approach to innovation, both at home and in terms of our global connections.

You know the drill.

Thanks as always for your help.

All the best,

John

Dear Huma,

Well life in your neck of the woods continues to be exciting it seems! I hope this note finds you well and taking deep breaths when necessary.

I'm sure things will continue to be busy on your end indefinitely; at the same time, I'm very interested in seeing when our friend might have time to talk. I would be willing to fly out at any time for that meeting. At the same time, I will be in the DC area on 2/12 and possibly 13th and will also be coming out East a fair amount over the next couple of months.

Please let me know what might be possible. I look forward to stay in touch.

All the best,

John

UNBOXED

Can Governments Till the Fields of Innovation?

BY STEVE LOHR

INNOVATION — the tricky, many-step process by which ideas become products and services — has typically been seen, studied and celebrated at the micro level, as a pursuit for entrepreneurs and clever companies.

But governments are increasingly wading into the innovation game, declaring innovation agendas and appointing senior innovation officials. The impetus comes from two fronts: daunting challenges in fields like energy, the environment and health care that require collaboration between the public and private sectors; and shortcomings of traditional economic development and industrial policies.

Innovation policy, to be sure, is an emerging discipline. It lacks crisp definitions or metrics. The most explicit embrace of it has been outside the United States, though the Obama administration is taking some initial steps. Its new budget directs the Bureau of Economic Analysis to develop statistics that “uniquely measure the role of innovation” in the economy. And the government’s new chief technology officer, Aneesh Chopra, speaks of building “innovation platforms” to spur growth.

The rising worldwide interest in innovation policy represents the search to answer an important question: What is the appropriate government role in creating industries and jobs in today’s high-technology, global economy?

That central issue animated much of the discussion at an unusual gathering earlier this month at a lodge north of San Francisco. This invitation-only affair was organized and moderated by John Kao, a former professor at Harvard Business School and founder of the Large Scale Innovation.

John Kao, right, a former professor at Harvard Business School, spoke this month at a meeting covering the appropriate government role in creating industries and jobs. (Peter DaSilva for The New York Times)

A few speakers covered big-think issues like climate-altering geoengineering and water-management technologies. But the main participants were innovation-policy practitioners from nine countries: Australia, Brazil, Britain, Chile, Colombia, Finland, India, Norway and Singapore.

The meeting offered a window onto the state of innovation policy — how it is being defined, and what countries are doing. Above all, innovation policy is an attempt to bring some coordination to often disparate government initiatives in scientific research, education, business incentives, immigration and even intellectual property.

“It’s about setting an agenda and helping build a portfolio of skills that let an economy and a society move forward in smarter, faster ways,” Mr. Kao said.

Yet if the reach of innovation policy is broad, the attendees agreed, it is best done with a lighter touch than industrial policies of the past, which often focused on specific companies for government support. They used metaphors like “impresario” and “orchestra conductor” to describe government’s role. The ideal, they said, is “stewardship,” not command and control.

In Britain, a national innovation agenda is beginning to take shape with policy documents and the creation of a Department for Business, Innovation and Skills. “We’re determined not to second-guess the future by trying to pick winners and losers,” said Philip Rycroft, a senior government official overseeing innovation policy. “But we do think government can create the conditions so that new industries can rise more easily.”

Finland has long taken a comprehensive approach to innovation policy, investing in areas as varied as an outstanding national education system and high-speed Internet connections for its residents. It has also produced a power in the cellphone industry, Nokia.

But Mikko Kosonen, president of the Copyright 2009, The New York Times.

Finnish Innovation Fund, a public investment fund, says Finland now needs an "innovation policy 2.0" to climb the economic ladder to remain competitive. "We see value migrating to software and services," he explained.

The country has the second-fastest-aging society in the world, after Japan, and its health care costs are rising rapidly. To turn that challenge into a growth engine, Finland intends to become a global leader in developing software and services for medical monitoring and preventive health services. "We think well-being services are the next big opportunity for Finland," said Mr. Kosonen, a former senior executive at Nokia.

Other governments are also focusing on targets of potential advantage. In Australia, the government is looking to nurture industries that arise from its harsh climate and a scattered population. So research centers are working to improve strains of drought-resistant wheat and cotton for export as adaptive technologies to cope with climate change, said Terry Cutler, who recently headed a government-appointed expert panel on innovation in Australia. And Boeing last year selected Australia as the location for a Phantom Works lab for developing unmanned aircraft, he said.

"Test flights don't bump into things," he said. "Sparsity can be a global competitive advantage."

In India, the government and industry have financed research into products and services that reverse the traditional pattern of innovation flowing gradually from wealthy nations to the rest of the world, said R. A. Mashelkar, chairman of the country's National Innovation Foundation. Early evidence of the trend, he said, includes the $2,000 Nano automobile, and low-cost drugs for tuberculosis and psoriasis.

"If you make something for the rich, the poor cannot afford it," Mr. Mashelkar said. "But if you design for the poor, everyone can afford it."

CLEARLY, the innovation meeting in California was a gathering of enthusiasts. One view not heard was that innovation policy itself is a mistake — government meddling in decisions best left to the marketplace — as free-market purists contend.

Lars Aukrust, executive director for innovation at the Research Council of Norway, answered that criticism by comparing a nation with a large corporation. "If you are going to run a big company," he said, "are you going to leave it all to serendipity or make some strategic choices?"

"Innovation policy is a probability game," Mr. Aukrust added. "You can improve the odds of success." ■

Dear Melanne,

I have really been trying to help Pattie get an answer. Philippe called me back last Friday and sounded quite positive and near definite that he would give the green light. I didn't quote him to Pattie but did say that after the conversation, I was optimistic that it would be a go. I am completely puzzled about why no one would have then given Pattie a call so that she need not be fretting and begging. Is there any way you can help her get an answer? Miss you and hope you are doing well.

Warmly,

Melanne—I've resisted the urge to lasso your help, beyond cc'ing you on the emails to Philippe and Caroline Adler. Whatever help you've given behind the scenes, thanks so very much.

But I'm reaching out to you now—and called your office before I cc'ed you on today's emails to Philippe and Caroline—because this is the deadline for an answer re doing the interview with Secretary Clinton for the MPWomen issue. As you know, Indra Nooyi really wants to do it. We really want to do it. The Secretary should—and I'm being objective here—want to do it, simply bc this issue is one of Fortune's biggest and most popular of the year, a must-read for CEOs and young women, and front and center at the MPWomen Summit. This is her chance to "speak" at the Summit (and to millions more influentials besides) even if she can't be with us in person.

So whatever you can do, we would so greatly appreciate. Thanks and all the best—Pattie

If there's no time to deal with this, I completely understand, but if there's a way that [redacted] can be included in the Goma press, that would be very special. This summer I am interning for a Ugandan weekly news magazine called The Independent. The website is www.independent.co.ug. My travel plans have changed slightly but I was informed that Hillary Clinton is scheduled to be in Goma around August 8/9. I am currently scheduled to go back to Kampala on the 9th, but I will be about 30 minutes from Goma at that point and if Hillary will be there then, I will go back. The ideal, if we are going to be there at the same time, would be for me to get to where she's going to be and best case scenario ask her some questions. The story would be for The Independent.

Thanks again!

Best,

Hey There,

Hope you are having a wonderful summer! I am leaving tonight for a trip to Burundi, Rwanda, and Congo and assuming all goes according to plan, I will be in Goma the same day as Hillary Clinton supposedly (Aug 7-8). I'm trying to find an exact itinerary and can't at the moment. I'll try and call the press office next week but I thought that there might be a very slim chance Rosina would know who the best person to talk to might be? I know its unlikely and completely far fetched, but worth asking, right? (I would have emailed her directly, but I don't seem to have her email saved anywhere).

Basically, if we are going to be there at the same time, I'd ideally like to try and get to where she's going to be. Best case scenario I would get to ask her a question or two, but I know that's unlikely and am really just trying to confirm whether or not I will be in Goma when she's scheduled to be there

Thanks!

Dear Huma:
How are you? I hope everything is doing well with you

Please pass the following message to Hillary:

Dear Hillary & President Clinton:

"We were taken to a location, and when we walked through the doors, we saw standing before us President Bill Clinton," Ling said with Lee standing beside her. "We were shocked, but we knew instantly in our hearts that the nightmare of our lives was finally coming to an end."

Reading through Mrs. Ling's words both of us were swept with overwhelming emotions visualizing that sublime moment. Actions like this symbolize the true nature of both of you. Absence of fear, boldness, calculated risk, willingness to take the heavy burdens and responsibilities of being living symbols and leaders of our great nation.

We are grateful, We are proud.

Amarilis and Claudio Osorio.

Germans and Russians will now cut their own separate deals on energy, regional security, etc., and those deals will

It was just one of those wonderful days and I just wanted to say thank you a million times for having the confidence in me, sticking with me, and giving me this chance. Dear Madam Secretary-

I hope this note finds you, the President, and Chelsea all doing well. Congratulations to President Clinton on successfully securing the release of the 2 American journalists. I am planning a trip to Asia for October 3-10. While there, I will be traveling to Beijing, Tokyo, Hong Kong and Singapore and I was wondering if there is any way you could help set up a meeting or 2 with some elected officials in any of those regions. Once again, you're doing an amazing job and all of America is very fortunate to have you as our Secretary of State. I look forward to seeing you soon.

1. Shaun Woodward, UK Secretary of State for Northern Ireland, suggested a panel at CGI to be conducted by former President Clinton of British and Irish prime ministers, and perhaps leaders in NI, under the theme of "Implementing Peace."
2. Former President Clinton has conveyed to me his approval, contingent on approval of the State Department.
3. I have copied below (and attached) Woodward's letter to me.
4. Let me know to move this forward.

Dear Sid,

Following our conversations about the CGI, it would be good to try and explore further now with President Clinton and State the idea for an event at the CGI for Northern Ireland.

As you know, and very much thanks to the help again of HRC, we hope to be able to move forward with the final phase of the political process in the Autumn.

As the CGI coincides with the UN meeting and also the G20, we should explore the idea of whether we could bring together and participation of both the British and Irish Prime Ministers under the auspices of the CGI. The theme could be 'Implementing Peace'. The session would explore the steps for the peace and political process in NI and obviously a session could have wider application into say the Middle East peace and political process.

To take this forward it would be helpful to explore this with President Clinton and State, and following their expression of interest/approval, I would take this forward with the British and Irish Prime Ministers.

Let me know your thoughts.

Nominations and other H issues

- Mike Polt said that the Department has now eclipsed the Bush Administration's record in terms of first session confirmation of State nominees with a total of 85 (vice 73 for Bush).
- Mike noted that there are a total of 33 Codels in motion now.
- Mike said that H is preparing for the 2010-Conference. Jack said in this context that he wants H to alert him and S early on to allow them to engage on matters they care about, even if some matters appear below the threshold for 7th floor involvement. This is a new era, he stressed, and he and the Secretary feel they can be most useful if they know about problems sooner rather than later, and they are prepared to engage whenever necessary. He asked H to put together a "cluster" of issues that S and he care most about and develop a strategy for engagement.
- Chris Hill will be back in Washington in mid-September to testify before Congress. Jack noted that he planned to be in Iraq the week before that to review various issues related to the hand-over of DoD responsibilities to State.

Honduras

- I raised a pending request from OAS for U.S. Milair support for the upcoming OAS Mission to Honduras. Sheba said she wanted to check with Jim (who is in Guadalajara with the President) whether he supported this. She subsequently reported that Jim thought this was a good way for us to gain a little ground by showing support for the mission, but he wanted to make sure we did not refer to this as the Insulza mission, but rather the "Espinosa/OAS Mission."

Public Affairs

- Robert said he anticipated some questions today about General Jones' weekend interviews where he said we would be willing to talk bilaterally to North Korea, but made it clear this should be in the context of the 6 Party Talks. Some in the press are seeking to make more of this than meets the eye.

Sensitive But Unclassified

Afghanistan

- Jack raised today's Washington Post article on Ambassador Eikenberry's request for a major increase in spending on development and civilian reconstruction in Afghanistan next year. PJ indicated he thought that the story had come out about as well as possible – Jack had been careful not to reject it out of hand, but make it clear we needed to evaluate the request carefully, a line that a Senate staffer quoted in the article echoed. The Post article, however, will prompt additional stories. The related article that DeYoung has been working on with reference to alleged State/DOD rivalry over civilian staffing is not dead, but PJ says he has arranged for Petraeus to speak to her.

Merida Initiative

- WHA is working on a revision of the 15 percent report, which Jim and Jack have not yet seen. Rich Verma said that Tim Rieser has indicated that Senator Leahy will not block the money in the end, but clearly this issue will have an impact on future appropriations. Jim asked Rich to tell Rieser that he is prepared to meet with him, along with Carlos Pascual and Valenzuela, to discuss the matter further and as a signal of our continued involvement and good faith. The message will be that we have heard their concerns, that we share them, and that we will stay on it. Jim noted that the tone of the report should be that this is a work in progress, and that both presidents at the recent summit meeting agreed to take steps to increase transparency.

Leahy Vetting

- Rich reported that Tim Rieser has asked for a status report on Leahy vetting with respect to Israel. The problem is that we have nothing to report beyond what has been in the press. [Redacted]

B5

Colombia

- WHA is working on revised guidance with respect to the proposed U.S.-Colombia Defense Cooperation Agreement. [Redacted]

President Carter

- Pat reported President Carter is planning another trip into Gaza later this month and the Secret Service is requesting substantial DS support for this or hoping State will dissuade the former President from going. Pat said he is going to raise this issue with Cheryl Obtained via FOIA by Judicial Watch, Inc.

Appropriations

- Pat noted that given the legislative calendar in September, it is likely we will not have an appropriations bill before the end of the fiscal year and will face the prospect of a Continuing Resolution. Jack said, in that case, we will have to appeal to OMB for "anomaly treatment" in order to give us what we need for operations in Iraq, Afghanistan and Pakistan.

Afghanistan/Pakistan Benchmarks

- Rich asked where we stood on the benchmarks.

B5

Somalia

- Jack said that the meeting yesterday with regard to the OFAC letter and humanitarian assistance to Somalia had failed to resolve USAID's concerns. In essence, the OFAC letter referred both to permitted and non-permitted actions, but also used the term "illegal" in describing any material assistance, even inadvertent, that goes to terrorist groups. AID will not move forward if that term is used. There will be another meeting today, and Jack said he is prepared to speak to Stuart Levey if necessary.

UBS

- Jim Thessin reported a deal in the UBS case that will likely be announced tomorrow. Both sides seem satisfied.

Hi Huma! Hope you're not too exhausted --- the end is in sight.
I was wondering about the status of the omnibus UNGA meeting recommendations memo that we worked on the week before you left. Did the Secretary act on that before you left, or has she looked at it on the trip? We're getting more recommendations and questions about UNGA events and need to start on a tasker and more definitive schedule, but I need some decisions on events before I can do that. I've attached the current bare-bones schedule I've developed based on the little information I have so far. Thanks!

If she has reading time on the trip back, it would be great if you could give this to her, or at least over the weekend or before my mtg w/ her next week. Appendix: Commentaries on a "Multi-partner world""Clinton: U.S. Urges 'Multi-Partner World'", by Glenn Kessler, Washington Post, July 16

"The Obama administration is attempting to build a 'multi-partner world' in which governments and private groups work collectively on common global problems and in which the United States does not shun dialogue with its adversaries, Secretary of State Hillary Rodham Clinton said yesterday."

"The Making of an Iran Policy," by Roger Cohen, New York Times Magazine, August 2

"Indeed, what looms for the Obama administration is a core test, over Iran, of its new foreign-policy doctrine. This was defined by Hillary Clinton as follows: 'We will lead by inducing greater cooperation among a greater number of actors and reducing competition, tilting the balance away from a multipolar world and toward a multipartner world.' But for all Obama's efforts to multipartner – by reviving the relationship with Russia and a similar outreach to the Chinese – it is far from clear that Moscow and Beijing do not still see America's Iran problem as a useful tool in building a multipolar world less dominated by Washington."

"Clinton Opens Key China Talks: Time for a 'Multipartner' World", by Martin Crut Singer, Huffington Post, July 27"U.S.: Clinton Seeks 'Multi-Partner World', Warns Iran on Time", by Jim Lobe, Inter-Press Service, July 15

"In her first comprehensive policy address since becoming secretary of state nearly six months ago, Hillary Clinton Wednesday called for a 'multi-partner' – as opposed to a 'multi-polar' – world' and defended President Barack Obama's policy of engagement with adversaries, including Iran."

"The New Rules: Clinton's Blueprint for a Multi-Partner World," by Thomas P.M. Barnett, World Politics Review, July 20

"Last week's major policy address by Secretary of State Hillary Clinton was as noteworthy for the strategic concepts she dismissed as for the ones she embraced. Clinton provided Americans with a strong sense of how she plans to conduct U.S.

foreign policy: not merely as ^{Obtained via FOIA by Judicial Watch} the indispensable nation that assumes international leadership, but rather as the global rule-set convener that aggressively builds partnerships across a strategic landscape pulsating with rising players – both state based and transnational. In doing so, Secretary Clinton explicitly rejected the emerging – and yet painfully antiquated – conventional wisdom that portrays a world inevitably divided into antagonistic poles. The shift in vision is both profound and important.”

“‘Multi-partner world’ a singular fantasy,” Trudy Rubin, Boston Herald, July 26

“‘We will lead by inducing greater cooperation,’ Clinton said, and by promoting ‘a multi-partner world.’ ... A ‘multi-partner world’ may be desirable, but it’s not inevitable, and it won’t be a panacea. The term may suffice as a concept, but as a policy framework, it falls short.”

“Was Hillary sensible, or just deceitful?” Rami G. Khouri, The Daily Star (Lebanon), July 18

“Most of what Clinton said was sensible and predictable, revolving around the main theme that the United States would not try to play balance-of-power politics around the world, but rather would try to build a ‘multi-partner world’ in which governments and private groups work collectively on common global problems or threats. If translated into policy, this gesture by the Obama administration could be historic.”

Cheryl -

Well, I finally made it. Quite a start to be able to ride in with the President in AF1 and then roll into meetings with Calderon and the leadership of the Mexican government. I will spend this week in Mexico. I will be back next week to pack out, but will also follow up on a number of other issues while I am there.

I wanted to ask if you thought it might be possible to get a bit of time with the Secretary. There are two requests going through the system. One is for a formal swearing in. I understand that she has one swearing in at 4:00 on Monday in the Ben Franklin room, so one option would be if she could do the same for me in the Treaty Room at 4:30. I know this is short notice - this has been one of those cases where planning has alluded us.

The second request is for a meeting with the Secretary. I would very much appreciate the chance to go over priorities moving forward, as well as provide a few initial observations.

Sorry to have to bother you with this. If it were not for the short timeframe and [redacted] I would not want to trouble you with this kind of thing.

Many thanks,

Carlos

Preaching reform, Clinton wins African hearts

By DONNA BRYSON (AP) - 1 hour ago

JOHANNESBURG — In Liberia, Hillary Clinton brought out the crowds despite torrential rain. In Congo, she came away deeply shaken from a meeting with rape victims. Kenya's prime minister said Africa didn't need lectures from the West about democracy, but Africa got one anyway.

At home, the U.S. secretary of state's visit may have been overshadowed by the aftermath of her husband's mission to North Korea to bring home two imprisoned U.S. journalists. But on her seven-nation Africa tour, ending Friday with a stopover in the West African island republic of Cape Verde, she made one splash after another.

Coupled with Barack Obama's visit last month, the two trips to Africa were the earliest into an administration by any secretary of state or president, underlining Washington's pledges to pay more attention to the continent.

In the U.S., the headline-making moment of the trip was her testy response to a question about Bill Clinton. But in Africa, it quickly became a footnote. What people wanted to hear was support for democracy, clean government and ending its many civil wars.

Clinton's ambitious itinerary resembled those of China's foreign minister, who makes extensive annual tours of his country's allies on the continent. But where China tends to sidestep the issues of corruption democracy, Clinton confronted them head-on.

Kenyan Prime Minister Raila Odinga, speaking hours before Clinton arrived, said Africa did not need to be lectured about democracy. After they met, she did just that. "The absence of strong and effective democratic institutions has permitted ongoing corruption, impunity, politically motivated violence and a lack of respect for a rule of law," Clinton said. "These conditions ... are continuing to hold Kenya back."

Odinga switched to a more conciliatory tone, saying African countries could learn from Clinton's example when she conceded defeat to Obama during the U.S. presidential primaries.

"That is a lesson Africa needs to learn seriously," he said. "In Africa, in many countries, elections are never won, they are only rigged. The losers never accept that they lost. If we do this, we will be able to develop democracy truly in the African continent."

In Angola, she told Foreign Minister Assuncao Afonso dos Anjos that his country needed to write a new constitution, prosecute human rights crimes and hold a proper presidential election.

"So, Mr. Minister, we have our work cut out for us," she said.

And in Nigeria, Africa's biggest oil producer, she said "the disconnect between Nigeria's wealth and its poverty is a failure of governance at the federal, state and local level."

To Africa's reformers, often an embattled minority, these were heartening words.

Emma Ezeazu, who campaigns for free and fair elections in his native Nigeria, said Clinton's visit showed that U.S. officials "are becoming more pro-active in their relationship with Nigeria, in particular on the subject of governance and democracy. They are paying more attention."

Tiseke Kasambala, a Johannesburg-based researcher for Human Rights Watch, commended her grasp of human rights abuses in Africa — not just the headline-makers, like Zimbabwe and Congo, but the lesser publicized offenders such as Angola.

In Goma, a Congo town in a region ravaged by gang rapes amid continuing fighting between army and rebels, Clinton announced $17 million in American aid to help the victims.

She toured a squalid camp of 18,000 refugees and heard one of them tell her, "We really want to return home, that's why we are asking America to help stop the fighting."

"That's why I'm here," Clinton replied. "I want you to be able to go home."

In Cape Town, South Africa, big, joyous crowds turned out for her at a housing project. In Liberia, founded in 1847 by freed American slaves, rain-drenched crowds waved U.S. and Liberian flags at Clinton's motorcade.

The crowds in Nigeria and Angola were fewer, but community and religious leaders seemed excited just to be with Clinton and be heard by her.

Nancy Kachingwe, a Malawian with the development group ActionAid, applauded Clinton's "very strong emphasis around women's rights."

Some of former President George W. Bush's Africa initiatives, particularly on AIDS, have been widely praised in Africa. But there were also sharp differences over world trade, global warming, and over the Bush administration's anti-terrorism strategy.

Washington wants to buy Africa's oil and gain access to its markets, and fears instability in places like Somalia could fuel anti-U.S. terrorism. Clinton won points by stressing that as the U.S. pursues its interests, it sees the virtue of "working with and listening to our friends and allies, and creating not a multipolar world, but a multi-partner world."

Kachingwe said what matters now is the follow-up.

"There will be a positive impact" from Clinton's trip, she said. "But somewhere along the way, we do need to see ... what's going to come to keep the momentum going."

By DONNA BRYSON (AP) – 1 hour ago

JOHANNESBURG — In Liberia, Hillary Clinton brought out the crowds despite torrential rain. In Congo, she came away deeply shaken from a meeting with rape victims. Kenya's prime minister said Africa didn't need lectures from the West about democracy, but Africa got one anyway.

At home, the U.S. secretary of state's visit may have been overshadowed by the aftermath of her husband's mission to North Korea to bring home two imprisoned U.S. journalists. But on her seven-nation Africa tour, ending Friday with a stopover in the West African island republic of Cape Verde, she made one splash after another.

Coupled with Barack Obama's visit last month, the two trips to Africa were the earliest into an administration by any secretary of state or president, underlining Washington's pledges to pay more attention to the continent.

In the U.S., the headline-making moment of the trip was her testy response to a question about Bill Clinton. But in Africa, it quickly became a footnote. What people wanted to hear was support for democracy, clean government and ending its many civil wars.

Clinton's ambitious itinerary resembled those of China's foreign minister, who makes extensive annual tours of his country's allies on the continent. But where China tends to sidestep the issues of corruption democracy, Clinton confronted them head-on.

Obtained via FOIA by Judicial Watch, Inc.

Kenyan Prime Minister Raila Odinga, speaking hours before Clinton arrived, said Africa did not need to be lectured about democracy. After they met, she did just that. "The absence of strong and effective democratic institutions has permitted ongoing corruption, impunity, politically motivated violence and a lack of respect for a rule of law," Clinton said. "These conditions ... are continuing to hold Kenya back."

Odinga switched to a more conciliatory tone, saying African countries could learn from Clinton's example when she conceded defeat to Obama during the U.S. presidential primaries.

"That is a lesson Africa needs to learn seriously," he said. "In Africa, in many countries, elections are never won, they are only rigged. The losers never accept that they lost. If we do this, we will be able to develop democracy truly in the African continent."

In Angola, she told Foreign Minister Assuncao Afonso dos Anjos that his country needed to write a new constitution, prosecute human rights crimes and hold a proper presidential election.

"So, Mr. Minister, we have our work cut out for us," she said.

And in Nigeria, Africa's biggest oil producer, she said "the disconnect between Nigeria's wealth and its poverty is a failure of governance at the federal, state and local level."

To Africa's reformers, often an embattled minority, these were heartening words.

Emma Ezeazu, who campaigns for free and fair elections in his native Nigeria, said Clinton's visit showed that U.S. officials "are becoming more pro-active in their relationship with Nigeria, in particular on the subject of governance and democracy. They are paying more attention."

Tiseke Kasambala, a Johannesburg-based researcher for Human Rights Watch, commended her grasp of human rights abuses in Africa — not just the headline-makers, like Zimbabwe and Congo, but the lesser publicized offenders such as Angola.

In Goma, a Congo town in a region ravaged by gang rapes amid continuing fighting between army and rebels, Clinton announced $17 million in American aid to help the victims.

She toured a squalid camp of 18,000 refugees and heard one of them tell her, "We really want to return home, that's why we are asking America to help stop the fighting."

"That's why I'm here," Clinton replied. "I want you to be able to go home."

In Cape Town, South Africa, big, joyous crowds turned out for her at a housing project. In Liberia, founded in 1847 by freed American slaves, rain-drenched crowds waved U.S. and Liberian flags at Clinton's motorcade.

The crowds in Nigeria and Angola were fewer, but community and religious leaders seemed excited just to be with Clinton and be heard by her.

Nancy Kachingwe, a Malawian with the development group ActionAid, applauded Clinton's "very strong emphasis around women's rights."

Some of former President George W. Bush's Africa initiatives, particularly on AIDS, have been widely praised in Africa. But there were also sharp differences over world trade, global warming, and over the Bush administration's anti-terrorism strategy.

Washington wants to buy Africa's oil and gain access to its markets, and fears instability in places like Somalia could fuel anti-U.S. terrorism. Clinton won points by stressing that as the U.S. pursues its interests, it sees the virtue of "working with and listening to our friends and allies, and creating not a multipolar world, but a multi-partner world."

Kachingwe said what matters now is the follow-up.

"There will be a positive impact" from Clinton's trip, she said. "But somewhere along the way, we do need to see ... what's going to come to keep the momentum going."

Jake, when you can, I think I speak for the group when I say that we'd like and After Action Report on last night's date with Dr. Senkler - especially curious if your plan to transition from the initial expanded group to a more restricted bilateral meeting worked as planned.

And while I'm writing, here is about the most straightforward piece about HRC ever written in the NY Times - with this classic line: "...a Liberian man with a long wooden horn followed her around most of the visit, blowing out loud funny noises whenever she said something striking."

Clinton Ends Africa Tour, Vowing to Stay Involved
By JEFFREY GETTLEMAN
The New York Times
Published: August 15, 2009

SANTA MARIA, Cape Verde - After a grueling seven-nation, 11-day trip, Secretary of State Hillary Rodham Clinton wrapped up her Africa tour on Friday by reaffirming her promise to renovate American relations with the continent.

"I leave Africa after this remarkable trip even more committed," Mrs. Clinton said before leaving Cape Verde.

"I have seen the joy and energy Africans have, evidenced not just by the boogieing, but by the hard work and perseverance," she said, referring to a recent comment from her husband, former President Bill Clinton, that she knew how to "boogie" with African dancers.

"And we've seen the worst humanity can do to itself," she added, presumably referring to Congo, where Mrs. Clinton met victims of a brutal civil war that just does not seem to end.

Mrs. Clinton seemed satisfied that she had accomplished her mission: strengthening American relations with crucial allies on the continent, like Nigeria and South Africa, and sending a message of "tough love," as she called it, to nations like Kenya and Congo.

Over all, she said, the United States wants to work more closely with African nations as a partner, not simply as a patron or dispenser of aid. In exchange, she said, African leaders must deliver democracy and good government.

Mrs. Clinton vowed to stay on top of Africa, even after she gets back to Washington, closely monitoring the issues she addressed on her tour. She also pointed to Cape Verde, a set of palm-studded islands best known for their beaches and enormous tourist hotels, as an example of what good leadership can do.

"This is possible," she said. "You create not just economic growth but a sense of human dignity and possibility."

Kenya. South Africa. Angola. Congo. Nigeria. Liberia. And finally Cape Verde. Mrs. Clinton saw with her own eyes some of Africa's most promising countries - and some of its most troubled ones. In Kenya, she pushed for the government to prosecute perpetrators of the postelection violence last year. In South Africa, the big issue was Zimbabwe and how the South African government should do more to help ease the crisis there.

In Angola, the theme was good governing practices and oil, a strategic concern of the United States given the many inroads China has made there and elsewhere in Africa in its hunger for natural resources. In Congo, Mrs. Clinton was passionate about the need to end the nation's rape epidemic.

"The secretary's visit to the heart of the world's deadliest war zone in eastern Congo was a potential game-changer for that conflict," said John Prendergast, a founder of the Washington-based Enough project. "Her commitment to addressing root causes such as the conflict minerals that power our electronics industry was a refreshing contrast to the usual disaster sympathy tourism of visiting dignitaries."

"Now," he added, "comes the hard part: making good on the promises and living up to the high expectations engendered by her visit."

In Nigeria, Mrs. Clinton pressed for electoral changes. In Liberia, she praised the country's president, Ellen Johnson Sirleaf, the only woman in Africa to be elected head of state.

The Liberian visit had a special warmth, almost like a meeting of long-lost cousins. Liberia was founded in the 19th century by freed American slaves, and the country's flag, the people's names and even the police uniforms with plastic-brimmed hats were all reminiscent of the American versions. Mrs. Clinton received possibly her most exuberant welcome there, and a Liberian man with a long wooden horn followed her around most of the visit, blowing out loud funny noises whenever she said something striking.

"I love that - the horn - I want to take that guy with me wherever I go," she said.

In Cape Verde, Mrs. Clinton seemed to have few bones to pick. For once, she said, she had a cheat sheet on a country that included a list of far more positives than negatives. The country has fewer than 500,000 people and has escaped the turmoil that has engulfed so much of Africa. The all-inclusive, poolside buffet resorts here feel like something found in Cancun or the Bahamas.

Mrs. Clinton called Cape Verde "a model of democracy and economic progress in Africa."

On Friday, just as she had at every stop, she started her speech by saying, "I bring you greetings from President Obama."

She called him a "son of Africa" and said that under the Obama administration, the United States was determined to help Africa reach its promise.

Hi Burns,

I received the email below from Lyn Lusi, a highly trained and experienced program administrator with HEAL Africa (Congo). I tried to line her up to be a speaker at the Global Summit that Hillary attended, but we were unable to book her due to scheduling issues. She's not some random, run-of-the-mill aid worker; she's really, really special, having set up the fistula hospital and teaching hospital in Goma with her husband, Dr. Jo Lusi. Lyn sent me this email and requested I "do what I can" to encourage Hillary to empower the indigenous physicians and trained personnel in this hospital rather than bring in outside partners to start something new.

Blessings to you,

Kay

Subject: Suggested letter for follow up to Mrs Clinton's visit to HEAL Africa

This is Lyn Lusi writing to you from HEAL Africa in Goma and your address comes from the business card you left me when you visited us. You may have heard that Secretary of State Mrs Clinton and Ambassador Ms Verveer came to HEAL Africa on Tuesday 11th August. The visit went very well, and the organisation was impeccable, so she could achieve her objectives. While in our Conference Centre, she announced a package of aid to Congo to fight Gender Based Violence.

First she congratulated HEAL Africa on the excellent work we are doing; then she announced a deal between the US and the Norwegian Government to build a state of the art fistula and teaching hospital in Goma.

She must have been aware of the shock and discouragement of all our staff. In effect she was saying:

"Your excellent work is not really excellent at all, and we will work with the Norwegians to replace you in North Kivu."

I seriously believe she was not properly briefed, because of some remarks she made as she was leaving.

This is now a request to you, and if possible, other members of the your organisation, if you would be so kind as to contact them. Nothing is set in stone, and politicians respond to pressure from their friends and constituencies. We believe that wise use of funds means building capacity among local organisations that have already proved that they can do the work, and sustain their efforts, rather than starting something new.

I am attaching below a letter like the one we have written to Mrs Clinton and a similar one to Ambassador Verveer. If you think it is appropriate, we are requesting you to write a similar letter to both of them. We are hoping that local Congolese organisations will not be excluded from these resources to build local capacity on the foundations of what is being done already.

With kind regards.

SUGGESTED LETTER

Secretary of State Mrs Hillary Clinton

U.S. Department of State
2201 C Street NW
Washington, DC 20520

Goma, 11th August 2009

Dear Mrs Clinton,

I/ We followed with interest reports of your visit to Goma on 11th August 2009, where you convened a meeting of Congolese actors in the fight against Gender Based Violence at HEAL Africa training center. The commitment of the people of the United States to working alongside Congolese associations for peace and human rights is heartening, after 16 years of endless war.

We congratulate you for this pioneering visit which gave a voice to Congolese community based organizations, who are often overpowered by international actors. We sincerely hope that the US government and USAID will take the next step in working alongside community based organizations in Eastern Congo.

After studying the announcement of the package of assistance that is being prepared to contribute to fighting Gender Based Violence in the east of Congo, we are mystified to hear that the United States and the Norwegian government have decided to build for North Kivu a centre of excellence for training doctors in fistula repair and care of mothers.

According to good development principles, outside assistance builds on what is already in place and functioning well, developing proven capacity and giving local actors the additional tools they need to do a better job.

As friends and supporters of HEAL Africa for many years, we know that this hospital has pioneered fistula repair in North Kivu and Maniema provinces since 2002, when no one else was interested in caring for women with fistula. They have four experienced surgeons trained in Addis Ababa fistula hospital, and have performed over 1600 fistula surgeries. HEAL Africa has a wide network of community based workers to identify and support patients coming and returning. HEAL Africa's surgical teams perform outreach surgery in North Kivu and Maniema provinces in local general hospitals, linked at the same time with in-service training of local staff, and referring only the most complicated cases to Goma. These services are recognized by reputable agencies since the United States through IRC, through UNICEF and through Engenderhealth, has invested in HEAL Africa staff, equipment and infrastructure over the past five year. The Spanish Embassy has supported HEAL Africa's prevention of fistula initiatives over the past four years, through their wide-reaching Safe Motherhood program, working through local associations of mothers-to-be for maternity insurance and access to safe deliveries.

HEAL Africa has a clearly defined place within the government medical system of North Kivu where they are recognized as the tertiary referral hospital of the province. Thus they are a recognized clinical training centre of the Medical Faculty of the University of Goma, offering the first two years of accredited clinical specialization in Pediatrics, Obstetrics and Gynecology, Family Medicine, Surgery and Orthopedics.

HEAL Africa is a Congolese not for profit association which has completely rebuilt itself after total destruction by the volcano, with assistance from many friends in USA and around the world. They have a state of the art surgical suite, but the buildings hastily erected in the aftermath of the volcano are inappropriate for the quality of care they wish to offer to patients: they deserve better.

We wish to request that the State Department give assistance to HEAL Africa to increase the quality of their services and training capacity through the newly announced package of financial aid. We would like to ask you to fund the construction of the three storey building which is the final stage of reconstruction of the hospital after the catastrophe of the volcano in January 2002. The second floor of this building will be entirely devoted to women's fistula services; and the whole hospital is devoted to teaching and preparing Congolese doctors to give excellent service in the most underserved areas of Congo.

Many visitors from the US Embassy in Kinshasa, from USAID in Washington and Nairobi, the Secretary General of the United Nations Mr Ban Ki Moon, Ms Rice from the Security Council, US senators and deputies, and a great number of aides from your government have visited HEAL Africa and have come away enchanted by a hospital of excellence run entirely by Congolese staff of the highest caliber. They are hoping that, through your visit, you will be able to advocate for the physical plant that will enable them to serve their patients even better than before, and train the next generation of doctors in an environment where it is possible to practice excellent medicine.

We remain, respectfully,

Yours sincerely,

The Secretary's Call Sheet for
Iraqi Foreign Minister Hoshyar Zebari
Wednesday, August 19, 2009

Purpose of Call: To express your condolences regarding the deaths of Iraqi MFA personnel in the August 19 attack on the Iraqi Foreign Ministry.

- I want to personally express my heartfelt condolences to you for the savage attack on the Iraqi Ministry of Foreign Affairs today and for the tragic loss of so many Iraqi lives around Baghdad and particularly at the Ministry of Foreign Affairs.
- I remember fondly our meeting at the MFA in April – I was proud to be the first senior U.S. official to attend a meeting there, and I was deeply saddened to hear that your Ministry was attacked.
- This is a trying day for Iraqis and the Government of Iraq, but brutal attacks like these only deepen the need for dedicated Iraqis like you and those in your Ministry, to remain committed to the new Iraq.
- Know that the United States will continue to stand by Iraq as it faces these challenges.

Background: On Wednesday, August 19, what appears to be a series of VBIED and additional rocket attacks in Baghdad resulted in the bloodiest day in Baghdad since the June 30 withdrawal of U.S. forces from urban areas. Although exact numbers have not been confirmed, media is reporting that approximately 75 people were killed across Baghdad with over 100 injuries. The most devastating attack appears to have been against the Iraqi MFA, where a VBIED was exploded in front of the main gate. Zebari's Chief of Staff estimated that there were 35-40 fatalities and up to 40 injuries resulting from this attack, with 70% of the building damaged. In April, you were the first senior U.S. official to hold a meeting at the MFA. Deputy Foreign Minister Labid Abbawi, who attended your meeting at the MFA and who's wife led your meeting with Iraqi war widows, was reportedly slightly injured and quite shaken by the attack. He may have lost a number of staff members. At this point, we do not know if other senior-ranking MFA officials were killed or wounded in the attack.

The Secretary's Call Sheet for
French Foreign Minister Bernard Kouchner
TBD

RELEASE IN FULL

Purpose of Call: French Foreign Minister Kouchner has asked to speak with you about the letter to President Obama from President Sarkozy and President Mubarak, proposing a Middle East peace conference this fall.

- Middle East Peace Conference: Our aim for any conference is that it be meaningful, advance our shared goal of comprehensive peace, and be held at a time that is conducive to moving the process forward. At present, we are focused on encouraging all stakeholders in the region to take meaningful steps to build a positive climate for negotiations. We intend to conclude this phase as soon as possible, and then resume negotiations. France and Egypt's work with the parties and other actors in the region to underscore these points is particularly important.
- Our position remains that the timing is not yet right for a conference this fall. Two UN Security Council Resolutions and multiple statements of the Quartet have also endorsed a separate international conference on Middle East peace in Russia in 2009.
- I would like Special Envoy Mitchell to brief you after his next meeting with Prime Minister Netanyahu.

Background: In a letter to President Obama, Presidents Sarkozy and Mubarak proposed hosting a Middle East peace conference this fall, while France and Egypt hold co-presidency of the Union for the Mediterranean (UfM). President Sarkozy first proposed a conference during the Israeli operation in Gaza this past winter and has raised the idea with Special Envoy Mitchell and with President Obama. The French and the Egyptians will support any format or approach that pushes negotiations forward. Sarkozy and Mubarak believe they can shape the UfM agenda, and the UfM has already brought all the parties to the conflict together. Sarkozy has actively promoted the UfM and notes that it is the only international organization that managed to persuade former Israeli Prime Minister Olmert and Syrian President Assad to appear together, which they did at its launch in Paris in July 2008.

RELEASE IN FULL

Chairs' Summary

1. The fifth Forum for the future, co-chaired by UAE and Japan, has been convened in Abu Dhabi, 18, 19 October 2008 with broad participation of ministers and representatives of the BMENA, G8 and other partner countries as well as international organizations and the civil society.
2. The participants appreciated the efforts made by the UAE for hosting the Forum including strong contributions made by Japan, in addition to the efforts made by Yemen and Germany in the framework of the previous session of the 2007 Forum.
3. The participants reviewed the progress of G8-BMENA initiative and reaffirmed its objectives of this important dialogue and partnership.
4. The participants expressed concern over the consequences of the international financial crisis, and committed to continue working together to stabilize the financial market and to support global economic growth. Several participants stressed on the negative impacts of this crisis on developing countries and confirmed the importance of Doha's UN Millennium Conference and Kuwait's Arab Economic and Social Summit Conference.
5. The participants affirmed the importance of coordinated efforts aimed at achieving a just and comprehensive peace of the Arab Israeli conflict, and supported the full implementation of the Road map and expressed their support for the Arab Peace Initiative as an effective vehicle to deal with the conflict.
6. The participants emphasized the need to solve the Darfur crisis, in all its humanitarian and political aspects, and supported the Arab League's and the African Union's initiative, sponsored by the State of Qatar, as it secures Sudan's sovereignty and unity and achieves justice.
7. The participants expressed their support for the national unity, independence and territorial integrity of Iraq, as well as supporting its comprehensive national reconciliation, constitutional political process, and the enhancement of governmental institutions and comprehensive development efforts.
8. The participants stressed the importance of resolving international disputes through peaceful means, in accordance with international law and UN charters, and stressed the importance of mutual respect of national priorities, sovereignty, independence and integral territories of all countries.
9. The participants highlighted the importance of enforcing the momentum of political, economic and social reforms stemmed out of the local environment, that are compatible with cultural, historical and religious characteristics of the region in conjunction with available capabilities and resources. In addition, the participants agreed that the course and span of reforms do vary from one country to another; and that the lasting progress of political reform in the region is a joint responsibility between governments and the civil society.

- 10. The participants recognized the progress achieved in educational reform and recognized the important role of educational and vocational-technical training in development. In addition, the participants recognized the measures taken to further joint cooperation between governments and the civil society in development efforts; particularly, in the domains of environment, sustainable energy, human rights issues, food security, humanitarian aid and creating employment opportunities.
- 11. The participants acknowledged the progress achieved in the area of women's empowerment and enhancing women's participation in all sectors.
- 12. The participants reaffirmed their commitment to guarantee freedom of expression, human rights, justice, equality, rule of law, respect of diversity, transparency and combating corruption. The participants also reaffirmed their commitment to renouncing terrorism, extremism and violence and for supporting joint regional and international efforts to combat such phenomena in the international environment.
- 13. The participants emphasized their keenness to support efforts exerted on enhancing and promoting dialogue among civilizations, religions and cultures; and disseminating a culture of tolerance, respect of differences, and not offending religious characters and convictions of all nations and peoples.
- 14. The participants expressed their hopes to achieve peaceful diplomatic solutions on the Iranian nuclear issue; that will deepen mutual trust and enhance regional and international security and stability. The participants also stressed the importance of ensuring a Middle East, including the Arabian Gulf, that is free of all weapons of mass destruction and in compliance with obligations under the non proliferation treaty. The participants recognized that the region's countries have the right to acquire peaceful nuclear technology in the framework of relevant international agreements.
- 15. The participants reviewed the progress of the Forum for the Future, since it was launched in Sea Island, U.S.A., in 2004, and affirmed the importance of supporting the Forum as a podium for dialogue and mutual cooperation among BMENA, G8 , partner governments, international organizations and the civil society. In addition, the participants affirmed their commitment to develop the Forum's mechanisms and to support Democracy Assistance Dialogue (DAD) efforts for the promotion of dialogue and cooperation between governments and the civil society.

16. The participants acknowledged the activities of the "Foundation for the Future" and appreciated the efforts and grants submitted by donors to support the foundation's activities.
17. The participants expressed their appreciation for the constructive work done by all parties to expand cooperation and engagement between governments and the civil society.
18. The participants appreciated the presentation by the DAD and expressed their hope that governments and the civil society further promote cooperation on reforms and sustainable developments in the region.
19. The participants acknowledged the document on "Partnership between G-8 BMENA Governments and The Civil Society" and welcomed the efforts made by the DAD.
20. The participants renewed commitments to continue their dialogue and collaboration, and noted continued progress and cooperation among all partners of Forum for the Future. They look forward to continued cooperation during the coming Italian Presidency of G8 in 2009, and the hosting of the sixth session by Kingdom of Morocco.
21. The participants expressed their appreciation to the UAE for its generous hospitality and efficient organization of the fifth forum.

Jake--he wants to be sure Treasury understands that he supports the German govt's position in favor of the Magna bid and that he doesn't believe Germany would support the alternative bid. Can you pass this on?

Someone sent this article to me yesterday it was entitled:

"It's 3 a.m. Do You Know Where Hillary Clinton Is?
She's not answering those crisis calls at the White House. But she's quietly revolutionizing American foreign policy."

Cdm, nora will give you a copy of my unga document that we discussed with hrc yesterday. There are 4 sections.

- Recommended events: she agreed to do all at some point during unga. The ones in bold have already been launched.
 - Consider: these are events we can make decisions on later. Only exception is the g-8 foreign ministers dinner. She confirmed she wants to do that
 - no need: these were 11 items we don't need to do and she agrees so we are regretting.
 - Bilats: many bilats we will make decisions on as we get closer. All african leaders we are not pursuing individual bilats since she will see them at lunch with potus.
- The following bilats are ones we will likely do or see what situation is like as we get closer to unga
To consider:

B5

Very likely or necessary.

Other events:

- your food security meeting is tentatively set for monday, the 21st at 3pm.
- we are confirming cgi closing planary on fri, the 25th.

Cheryl,

We spoke with IO, EEB, and Amb. Cousin after the meeting today and came up with the following revision to S's call points. We decided the best language would be for the Secretary to say that if UNSYG cannot co-host, that she would welcome the participation of his representative. The important point here is that we do not want the FAO head – Jacques Diouf – to end-up co-hosting the UNGA event, and everyone agreed there was a danger Ban ki-Moon would suggest he do so. In the background at the bottom I included a point stressing that we do not want Diouf to co-host.

Thanks,
Marisa

RELEASE IN PART
B5

The Secretary's Call Sheet for
UN Secretary-General Ban Ki-moon
August 24, 2009

Purpose of Call: You are calling UN Secretary-General Ban Ki-moon to ask him to co-host with you an event at UNGA to advance the Global Partnership for Agriculture and Food Security.

- UNGA Food Security Event: I would like to co-host with you an event to advance the global agenda on food security. We see country-led processes as a centerpiece of a new global agenda. This event would most likely take place on Thursday, September 24, at 3:30pm. If you cannot co-host the meeting, I would welcome the participation of your representative at the meeting.
- Event Content: We would like this event to be an opportunity for a broad group of global stakeholders to commit to the food security principles agreed to at the L'Aquila summit. We hope to extend the L'Aquila food security principles to countries that were not present at the summit. The event will also focus on highlighting country-led processes, such as the Comprehensive African Agricultural Development Program (CAADP). I welcome your thoughts on other issues you would like the meeting to cover. We look to the UN to provide leadership in advancing a global agenda.
- Event Partners: We envision inviting Heads of State or senior ministers from donor countries, signatories to the L'Aquila joint statement on food security, and developing nations. We would also like to include foundations, NGOs, the private sector, media, and multilateral organizations.

Background: We want Ban Ki-moon and the UN High Level Task Force to play a leading role in combating global hunger. We believe that co-hosting this event with UN Secretary-General Ban Ki-moon would highlight the global nature of our food security strategy. [REDACTED]

Cheryl, I hope for your sake that you don't get this email for a while and that you're getting some genuine R&R. Anyway, David Rubenstein of the Carlyle Group is asking my advice on whether HRC would welcome an invitation to address the Economic Club of Washington in September. Obviously business-heavy. Audience: 400-500, screen questions for after talk and he can provide them in advance; media coverage, etc. I told him I had no idea but would check. Depending on her outreach strategy for the fall, it could be a good audience, esp. if she wanted to talk about issues like China, the development, the role of the private sector, or energy/climate—i.e., the econ aspect/component of foreign policy. If I should be going elsewhere for this kind of steer, lemme know. Regards, Strobe

PS: Kemal Dervis, Judith Rodin and I connected by phone with Jack Lew, Derek Chollet & others on State end re outside input into QDDR.

THE ECONOMIC CLUB
OF WASHINGTON, D.C.

RELEASE IN FULL

2009 Annual Corporate Partners

August 24, 2009

Bingham McCutchen LLP
The Carlyle Group
HSBC
Information Management
Consultants, Inc
PricewaterhouseCoopers

The Honorable Hillary Rodham Clinton
Secretary of State
U.S. Department of State
2201 C Street, NW
Washington, DC 20520

Dear Madame Secretary,

On behalf of the Economic Club of Washington, I would like to invite you to speak to the Economic Club of Washington this fall on a date of your choosing.

As you may know, the Club is a group of about 500 business leaders from the Washington metropolitan area to whom you spoke in 1994 at a luncheon on the subject of health care.

For the past 25 years, the Club has invited senior corporate and government leaders to address the Club on issues of public interest. Among those who have addressed the Club in recent years are President George W. Bush, Ben Bernanke, Chairman of the Federal Reserve Board; Jeff Immelt, Chairman and CEO of General Electric; Kenneth I. Chenault, Chairman and CEO of the American Express Company; Jamie Dimon, Chairman and CEO of JPMorgan Chase, and Eric Schmidt, Chairman and CEO of Google. Among those who have addressed the Club this year, when I succeeded Vernon Jordan as Club President, are The Honorable Henry M. Paulson, Secretary of the Treasury (in his last week in office), The Honorable Timothy Geithner, Secretary of the Treasury, Larry Summers, Chair of the National Economic Council; Dr. Christina Romer, Chair of the Council of Economic Advisers, and Indra Nooyi, Chairman and CEO of PepsiCo. Rex Tillerson, Chairman & CEO of Exxon Mobil Corporation will address the Club at a dinner this fall on October 1st.

Generally, the format is to have our guest speak following a meal--breakfast, lunch or dinner--and to then respond to a few questions, which I screen for relevance and appropriateness. Some of the addresses by our guests have been broadcast live by a variety of cable networks.

As we put together our fall schedule of speakers, we have some flexibility in dates. The Club typically needs about two weeks notice to organize an event, and have it be well attended by the members.

Obviously, The Club would be delighted and honored if you would be willing to address its members this fall. I will follow up with your staff to see whether such an address might be of interest to you and possibly fit into your schedule.

On behalf of the Club, I appreciate your seriously considering this invitation. I believe you would find, as our other guest speakers have, that the experience of addressing the Club is a pleasurable and a worthwhile one.

Sincerely,

David M. Rubenstein
President

The Economic Club of Washington

In 1986, the Economic Club of Washington was formed as a nonprofit corporation in recognition of the Washington area's increasing economic diversity and importance as a center of business activity, and because of Washington's unique and critical role in the national and world economics.

The Club offers a forum in which prominent business and government leaders can express their views on the most important economic issues of the day and how those issues affect the city, the region, the nation, and the world. The Club also promotes a greater sense of community among business and civic leaders, government officials, and members of the diplomatic corps.

Each year, the Economic Club awards $10,000 doctoral fellowships to two promising students who are pursuing a PhD in economics, finance, or business at one of the member institutions of the Consortium of Universities of Metropolitan Washington. The Economic Club offers a third $10,000 doctoral-level fellowship to Consortium students, honoring the late Philip Dearborn, for proposed doctoral-level research dealing with issues of direct and specific relevance to the Greater Washington Metropolitan Area.

Since its founding, the Club has presented Cabinet officers, heads of major U.S. and foreign corporations, noted economists, leaders in the media, and authors. Recent speakers include: President Bush; Secretary of the Treasury Henry Paulson, Peter Peterson, Senior Chairman and Co-Founder of the Blackstone Group; Robert Rubin, former Secretary of the Treasury and Director and Chairman of the Executive Committee of Citigroup, Inc.; Ben Bernanke, Chairman of the Federal Reserve Board; Melinda Gates of the Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation; Richard Parsons, Chairman and CEO of Time Warner; Anne Mulcahy, Chairman and CEO of Xerox Corporation; Jeff Immelt, Chairman and CEO of General Electric; Michael Turner, CEO of BAE Systems; Secretary of the Treasury John Snow; former World Bank President James Wolfensohn; Fred Smith, Chairman & CEO of FedEx; Nobel Laureate Joseph Stiglitz; Tim Russert of NBC news; Richard Fairbank, Chairman and CEO of Capital One, Tim Geithner, President & CEO of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, Ken Chenault, Chairman and CEO of the American Express Company; Henry Kravis of Kohlberg, Kravis, Roberts & Company; and Robert Zoellick, President of the World Bank; Jamie Dimon, Chairman & CEO of JPMorgan Chase; Dr. Ruth Simmons, President of Brown University; Dr. Eric Schmidt, Chairman of the Board and CEO of Google; Richard Wagoner, Chairman & CEO, General Motors Corporation; a Political Roundtable featuring Paul Begala, Mark Shields, Ken Duberstein, and Fred Barnes; The Honorable Henry M. Paulson; Randall L. Stephenson, Chairman & CEO, AT&T, Paul S. Otellini, President & CEO, Intel Corporation; Lawrence Summers, Director of the National Economic Council; Secretary Timothy Geithner; and Indra K. Nooyi, Chairman & CEO, PepsiCo

The Economic Club's Officers are: PRESIDENT, David M. Rubenstein, The Carlyle Group; VICE PRESIDENT, Debbie Dingell, General Motors; VICE PRESIDENT- PROGRAMS, Edward J. Mathias, The Carlyle Group; VICE PRESIDENT- MEMBERSHIP, W. Lyles Carr, III, The McCormick Group, Inc.; VICE PRESIDENT- EDUCATION, John D. H,
I spent yesterday with Les Gelb on Nantucket. He had lots to say which might be of interest, but I thought the most important thing to tell you is to make sure you are aware of the Parade magazine piece he wants to do about you. He would like to do a day in your life, when you meet with members of Congress and international figures. He wants to show the impact you are having domestically and internationally. He said he would give you a veto over content and looked me in the eye and said, "she will like it". Maybe you know this, but did not want it to fall between the cracks. Enjoy your vacation and love to all of you.

Madame secretary (that's still fun to say):

I hope you're doing well and at least getting a little down time this summer.

I have some news for you and a quick question to ask.

In a couple weeks I will be leaving steve's company to take a job in mayor villaraigosa's administration. Specifically I'll be the chief deputy mayor and one of the top two staffers in the city. He's looking to reinvigorate and refocus his mayoralty and I'm excited to help him do that and I'm really excited about the opportunity to help govern from an executive position.

I also have a strong affinity for him in no small part because of how loyal he was to you during the primary.

That's the news -- the question is that I've just learned they'll be announcing this tomorrow and I wanted to see if perhaps you'd be willing to give a quote for the release. And I do know you have a world to continue putting back together so if this isn't possible for any reason I completely understand.

All the best,
Jay

Huma -

Received this email from Reema Nanavaty -- I know the Secretary has developed contact with SEWA over the years in part through the Clinton Global Initiative (CGI). See Reema's comment about organizing a panel on Women, trade and Poverty with CGI which was discussed with the Secretary. I don't know if this something of interest or if you were looking for this - let me know if we can do any follow up.

I will forward the climate change document to Todd Stern.

Dear Mr. Paul Folmsbee,

Thank you for the meeting on 20th August 2009. I look forward to reading your interesting article soon.

As discussed, I enclose a brief note on "Climate Change and the rural poor women workers". Kindly go through and discuss with Mr. Todd Stern or whoever you think is appropriate and inform.

Also may I request you to kindly follow up with Ms. Huma Abedin, Chief of Staff on the follow up of organising a panel/ exhibition on "Women, Trade and Poverty" at the Clinton Global Initiative and at the UN, with the grassroots women.

Lastly, kindly consider SEWA's senior organisers (1) Mona Dave - for International visitors programme particularly focussing on Business. (2) Heena Dave - focussing on Poverty, Education, Leadership (3) Veena Sharma - focussing on poverty, education, leadership (4) Naimisha Joshi (5) Rehana Riyawala.

It has been a long list with range of subjects.

Awaiting to hear from you.

Climate Change and the Rural Poor Women Workers

RELEASE IN FULL

The World over everyone is concerned and deliberating on "The Climate Crises" and its mitigation. We also need to include the voices of the World's poor and also study the coping and mitigation measures adopted by the rural poor, and their future needs. This is essential to make the entire process and the Copenhagen Summit also inclusive of the poor.

SEWA therefore proposes

- (a) Having a dialogue and debate with companies, Governments to look into designing affordable renewable energy lighting and other equipments, solar panels etc Equipments which are accessible and affordable to the rural poor as well. Carry out joint/ collaborative investments to reach out and involve the rural masses in South Asia.
- (b) Involve Universities and Research Centre in engaging in community research to design methods, approaches to mitigate and reduce carbon emissions, resulting into micro – macro linkages and dialogue. This will bring out the voices of the rural poor into policy dialogue and debate on climate change.

While countries and Government debate on macro policies, there is urgent need to engage the rural poor who still constitute more than 30% of the Worlds population in the climate change mitigation measures.

Women's Trade & Finance Council

RELEASE IN FULL

Mission and Objectives

The Women's Trade & Finance Council has been created to address poverty by fostering greater inclusion of women's productivity in global trade flows. The Council's overarching objective is to influence trade and finance policies at the international and national levels. In addition, the Council seeks to cultivate North-South linkages that expand market and business opportunities, thereby contributing in measurable terms to sustainable livelihoods.

Who we are

Originally conceptualized by Senator Hillary Clinton (D-NY) and Reema Nanavaty of the Self Employed Women's Association in India (SEWA), the Women's Trade & Finance Council has been established by the Global Fairness Initiative (GFI) in partnership with Vital Voices Global Partnership and SEWA. The Council is comprised of international businesswomen, scholars, thought leaders, and communications experts, all of whom share a commitment to strengthening the role of women in the global economy. The Council also engages practitioners, policy experts, economists and others whose knowledge of gender and trade issues bolsters the credibility and efficacy of its work.

What we do

Given its composition, the Women's Trade & Finance Council is uniquely positioned to pursue a dual-track approach to (1) leverage its high-impact capacity to influence global trade and finance policymakers, and (2) foster practical linkages that yield near term business opportunities.

Through its convening power and access to international policymakers, Council members are well positioned to raise awareness about the gender aspects of international trade and finance, and to propose reforms that will promote sustainable livelihoods and strengthen developing economies. The Council is structured to examine and develop solutions to such practical issues as financing terms, market access barriers, production constraints and supply chain management challenges. In addition, the Council serves as a forum through which potential partners can pursue pioneering commercial opportunities and share best practices.

United States Senate
WASHINGTON, DC 20510

RELEASE IN FULL

July 28, 2009

The Honorable Hillary Rodham Clinton
Secretary of State
United States Department of State
2201 C Street, Northwest
Washington, D.C. 20520

Dear Madame Secretary:

We are writing about press articles regarding the State Department's negotiations with the Government of Colombia to establish a semi-permanent military presence with base access in that country.

Despite the obvious foreign policy and budgetary implications of such an agreement, neither the Foreign Relations Committee nor the State, Foreign Operations Subcommittee of the Appropriations Committee was even informed of the negotiations, much less consulted on them. Even after press reports divulged their existence, the negotiations were acknowledged only in response to staff inquiries.

Given this lack of consultation, we respectfully request a written summary of the negotiations and their results. Specifically, we would like to know:

- What sort of U.S. military presence in Colombia and the region do these negotiations envision? What would be the operational and policy purposes of such a presence? How would the basing agreement affect limitations on the U.S. role in Colombian counternarcotics/counterinsurgency operations?
- How many U.S. troops, what rotation schedule, what hardware, and what support infrastructure would be intended, where and at what cost? What benefits of any kind would accrue to the Colombian Government, and specifically to the Colombian military, under such an arrangement? And what programs, if any, would be reduced in order to pay for this semi-permanent military presence?
- Where would semi-permanent base access fit into the U.S. interagency commitment – as previously briefed to the Committees on Appropriations and Foreign Relations – to gradually reduce U.S. military assistance to Colombia and “nationalize” major elements of Plan Colombia? Under what conditions would you anticipate closing the base(s) short of the reported 10-year period?
- What are the implications of further deepening our relationship with the Colombian military at a time of growing revelations about the widespread falsos positivos (“false positives”) scandal, in which the Colombian military recruited many hundreds (some estimates are as high as 1,600) of boys and young men for jobs in the countryside that did not exist and then summarily executed them to earn bonuses and vacation days? In your judgment, what signal does a deepening of our partnership with the Colombian military send before investigations gain momentum and accountability for these atrocities is established? How, given these circumstances, would deeper institutionalized cooperation with the Colombian military fit in with our strategic interest in and commitment to human rights and the rule of law?

- What implications does a basing agreement hold for other U.S. interests in South America, and how were those implications weighed in the negotiation? What consultation or notification with Colombia's neighbors was made before press reports about the basing proposals appeared, and how did they react? What impact would the Department expect such a basing agreement to have in the region and on our relations with other South American countries?
- How long have the negotiations been going on, and why was there no consultation with the above-mentioned congressional committees or with NCIQ experts on Colombia? Was the lack of consultation as pervasive on the Colombian side as well, and, if so, did the Department judge, or concur in the Colombian Government's judgment, that there should be no consultation on the Colombian side either?

We look forward to discussing this important issue with you. The decision to make semi-permanent a U.S. military presence in Colombia warrants serious debate about both the practical aspects as well as the implications for other U.S. objectives in that country and the region.

Sincerely,

The Honorable Hillary R. Clinton
Secretary of State
U.S. Department of State
2201 C Street, NW
Washington, D.C. 20520

Dear Secretary Clinton:

I would first like to express my appreciation for the Department's cooperation in providing updates and briefings regarding U.S. policy towards Honduras following the events of June 28, 2009. Our shared goal must be to advance U.S. interests and, in so doing, help preserve and protect democratic institutions, rule of law, and fundamental freedoms abroad.

In the spirit of this collaboration and in order to better understand the policy decisions currently being carried out by the Department of State, I would like to request an expeditious response to the questions outlined below. The response may be provided via a briefing next week to my staff members on the House Committee on Foreign Affairs.

- 1) Has there been an inter-agency policy review (beyond any technical legal review) on Honduras following the events of June 28th? If so, was this review coordinated by the Department of State or the National Security Council? What were the results/conclusions/recommendations of that review?
- 2) If a policy review was not conducted, did the policy decisions leading to the suspension of certain U.S. activities, assistance and visa services incorporate the views and concerns of the Department of Defense, Drug Enforcement Agency, or any other U.S. intelligence and law enforcement agencies with respect to U.S. security equities in and with Honduras?
- 3) What effect has the suspension of U.S. activities at Soto Cano and of operations by the Drug Enforcement Agency had on U.S. national security interests?
- 4) On what basis was the decision made for the U.S. to advocate for the return to power of Manuel Zelaya? What U.S. political, commercial, and security interests are being promoted by this position? Given the potential for increased violence and instability in Honduras should Mr. Zelaya be allowed to return to power and the implications for neighboring countries, is the Administration concerned that the pro-Zelaya U.S. position could permanently damage relations with future Honduran leaders and Honduran civil society, and thus undermine long-term U.S. interests in the region?

- 5) There is agreement that Honduran authorities committed an error in exiling Mr. Zelaya. The current government in Honduras has publicly expressed its willingness to allow Mr. Zelaya to return to the country as a Honduran national and face the charges against him. In the Administration's view, why is this insufficient to address U.S. concerns? How can the current Honduran government reconcile the requests from the "international community" for the return to power of Mr. Zelaya with its obligations to abide by the Honduran constitution and address the concerns of the Honduran people?
- 6) The Administration has taken a number of steps to pressure the current Honduran government into agreeing with the San Jose Accords and has indicated it will consider additional sanctions against the current Honduran government to force them into compliance with the consensus of the "international community." What steps has the Administration taken to apply pressure on Mr. Zelaya concerning the San Jose Accords? Prior to June 28th, what actions and policy steps did the Administration take to prevent Mr. Zelaya from engaging in violations of the Honduran constitution or to hold him accountable once he committed those violations?
- 7) On June 28th, President Obama stated that "any existing tensions and disputes (in Honduras) must be resolved peacefully through dialogue free from any outside interference." How do the various measures the State Department has implemented fall in line with the President's stated position of no "outside interference"?
- 8) In the Administration's view, are there any other alternative solutions to the situation in Honduras that do not involve Mr. Zelaya's return to power for any period of time? What is the Administration's position of the recent proposal to have a third party assume the presidency in Honduras until the November presidential elections in the country?

Thank you in advance for your consideration of this request. I look forward to receiving your prompt response to these questions given the time-sensitive nature of these issues.

Sincerely,

LEANA ROS-LEHTINEN
Ranking Member

Subject: QDDR and Micronesia

To the Secretary's Staff:

I applaud the Quadrennial Diplomacy and Development Review (QDDR) as a vital tool to integrate development as a core element of our renewed diplomatic leadership. I urge that this blueprint be clear and lean, so that any Chief of Mission can contribute at the country level. No nation is too small or remote for our attention.

In the Federated States of Micronesia, where I serve as Ambassador, the U. S. Department of the Interior (DOI) runs a sizeable, top heavy assistance program under a Compact of Free Association. This program, which is a vestige of a post-World War Two Strategic Trusteeship relationship, remains almost entirely outside the authority of the COM. The deliberately uncoordinated implementation of over $90 million of annual grant assistance by a U.S. domestic agency has wasted resources, generated resentment toward the United States, and exacerbated internal political tensions. Micronesia became a sovereign nation 30 years ago.

In 2003, the Bush Administration situated the DOI Compact assistance office thousands of miles away in a deluxe office suite in Honolulu. Administration of the Compact grants is thus performed by four DOI civil servants who take occasional flights to Micronesia. Under this long distance arrangement, we have failed to coordinate and build partnership. No USAID or any other U.S. development specialists are attached to the Embassy, including for the purpose of coordinating an additional $50 million worth of other federal programs. In a dissent cable that I submitted to Policy Planning last May (Kolonias 82), I attempted to convey the larger context of such an inadequate aid vehicle. In effect, an intrinsically friendly Pacific island nation now chafes and resents a U.S. aid program that is perceived as mismanaged and neocolonialist. We have failed to significantly improve the lives of the Micronesians, 29.9% of whom now live below the Basic Needs Poverty Line. The Chief of Mission has been unacceptably excluded.

While I have thus opted to depart post in September, the QDDR has given me hope for the future. The Secretary's opening remarks to the House Foreign Affairs Committee of April 22 resonated like music in my ears, particularly her statement, "We're turning our ambassadors into in-country chief executives with authority and responsibility for the programs on the ground."

Thank you for shining a spotlight on a core systemic problem. I do hope my successor will become the beneficiary of such empowerment. Otherwise, we are not One U.S. Government here, as a recent OIG report of our post emphasized. Please do consider Micronesia in the QDDR, perhaps as a small prototype that could serve as a catalyst to better harness development to diplomacy in small island developing nations. As a Foreign Service Officer, I remain at your service and eager to contribute to reform.

Yours truly, Mimi Hughes

Miriam K. Hughes

Dear Huma,

Gov. Schwarzenegger wanted to call Secretary Clinton to follow up on an invitation he extended to her (attached) to speak at his second annual Governors' Global Climate summit, in Los Angeles (Sep.30-Oct. 2).

If her considering the invitation is possible, how can we best schedule a call?

But if, given her other commitments she can't, then I don't want to impose on her time with a call if the answer has to be no

Can you please let me know?

Thanks,

Stephen

RELEASE IN FULL

GOVERNOR ARNOLD SCHWARZENEGGER

July 16, 2009

The Honorable Hilary Clinton
Secretary of State
United States of America
Department of State
2201 C Street NW
Washington, DC 20520

Dear Madam Secretary,

As you know, one of the greatest challenges we face today is climate change. The impacts of sea level rise, drought and temperature change affect everything from the way people eat to the way they move in our nation and around the world. We are fortunate to have a federal administration, in which you play an imperative role, which understands the implications of climate change and the need for international partnership in addressing it. I have confidence that our entire nation will proudly stand behind you as you represent the United States at the Copenhagen talks.

This fall, I will be co-hosting, along with other United States governors and our partners in the United Nations Development Programme, the Governors' Global Climate Summit 2. This important event will take place September 30-October 2, 2009, in Los Angeles. We would be honored to have you speak at the summit, where leaders from around the world will meet to discuss the "Road to Copenhagen."

Last year's inaugural Governors' Global Climate Summit was a huge success thanks to more than 1,000 participants from 53 states, provinces and nations around the world. At the summit, 31 government officials from eight countries signed a declaration acknowledging the threat of climate change and committing to collaboration on deforestation, transportation, technology transfer and information sharing. Progressive leaders from around the world have worked together and must continue to do so to free ourselves from dependence on fossil fuels, increase the use of clean energy, boost our economies and fight global climate change.

My Secretary for Environmental Protection, Linda Adams (ladams@calepa.ca.gov), is my lead in planning the summit. Her staff will contact your office to determine your availability to participate in this event. I hope that you will join us for a historic gathering to further this important work to which you are so committed.

Sincerely,

Arnold Schwarzenegger

RELEASE IN FULL

Dear Honorable Secretary of State, Ms Hillary Clinton,

August 25th, 2009

We cordially invite you to be the Chief Guest on September 12th at 6 pm on the occasion of the closing ceremony of the Asia Expo 2009 hosted by the Leaders of the Asian American Communities in the USA with you and the Honorable Union Minister of Food processing of India, Mr Subodh Kant Sahai as the Chief Guest in the Concourse Hall in the South Hall of the Convention Center. This is the second U.S -Asia Investment Seminar and Global Venture Funding 2009 at the Los Angeles Convention Center on September 10-13, 2009. This historic event is only months after US President Barrack Obama issued a statement stating that building strategic partnership with Asia is a top priority and sees it as a natural strategic ally of US in the 21st Century. This event will also be hosting the 6th annual Independence day of USA celebrations and the award ceremonies of FOSAAC (Friends of the South Asian American Communities) and USABF. Details of all the past events can be viewed at www.fosaacent.com and also at www.fosaac.com

The second Investment Seminar , Business Expo, and Global venture funding is being organized by the US-Asia Business Forum, a non profit organisation based in California, USA to promote trade relations between US and Asia, to enhance the business climate and to build relations that will result in mutual prosperity. The Asian market and its four billion-plus population present lucrative and diverse opportunities for the US exporters and investors. Asia's infrastructure, as well as its transportation, energy, health care, high-tech, food, agriculture and defense sector require investment exceeding tens of billions of dollars in the mid-term as the Asian economy globalizes and expands. Asia's GDP, currently growing at around 9 percents, makes it one of the fastest growing economies in the world. On September 10-13, 2009, Asia is coming to Los Angeles Convention Center. Several top dignitaries from China, Russia, India and the USA are also in the process of confirming their gracious presence. Enclosed is the information packet of this historic event.

Sincerely,

Lt Kevin Kishore Kaul. (Retd, Indian Navy)

Biehl called a little after 1:30 pm to say the meeting with the de facto envoys had been abruptly cancelled -- but for perhaps a positive reason.

Micheletti has asked about half the team to return to Tegucigalpa (Corrales stayed, as "he seeks to confirm that he will not lose his visa"). In the phone call he got from the de facto envoys as they headed for the airport, Biehl said he detected a positive attitude. The envoys seemed confident they would get M to sign the SJ Accord. The envoys promised to call Biehl late this afternoon with the news from Honduras. If, if, if, if, the news is positive, Biehl and OAS Political Director Victor Rico will leave for Tegucigalpa tomorrow morning to meet Micheletti, make sure this is not another time-wasting tactic, and get something in writing from him that he agrees to the Accord and will sign it.

Just before speaking to me, Biehl had spoken with Arias who expressed cautious optimism that we might have a breakthrough. Arias told Biehl to tell us, that if that happens the United States gets the credit.

Arias said the US has played the game exactly right, with the appropriate mix of carrots, sticks, toughness, unified message, even-handedness and, above all, good timing. Arias said the Europeans have been calling him over the past two days, and have fallen into line with the US; the Swedes, as head of the EU, and have told him that they will take their cue from the US and will support US actions. Arias, Biehl said, was extremely complimentary of the "great political instincts shown by Secretary Clinton."

With fingers crossed, the old rabbit's foot out of the box in the attic, I will be sacrificing a chicken in the backyard to Moloch ...

I just received a call from Arias. He expressed his appreciation for everything the US had done in support of democracy in Honduras. He said the recent tough messages by Insulza, OAS Ambassadors and USG officials strengthened by US sanctions, was having an impact on the M regime. He praised our decision to close the consulate and urged that we also move to take away tourist and business visas from key regime members and supporters. I told him we were working on implementing the visa and other measures which I expected could be announced soon.

Arias was critical of Z saying his recent public statements continued to be unhelpful. He described Z's statement advocating the death penalty (presumably to apply to his political enemies) and asking for the extension of his term in office as "disastrous". He said that Insulza had made the right call by not allowing Z to address the OASGA. We agreed the influence of FM Rodas over Z was highly negative.

I told Arias I would be back in Honduras tomorrow and planned in the coming days to press influential political, business and civil society and urge support for the immediate signing of the SJ Accord. Arias and I agreed to stay in close touch in the coming days.

I made a few changes to the line block yesterday so happy to send to you after I follow up on these items -- you will have meetings this week on Iran, Iraq and Non Pro with the Iran team tomorrow.

- Hill is on Friday with the Iraq team -- you can see him privately either before or after.
- Will move Holbrooke to 8am on Thursday.
- Can I offer Collins, McCain, Graham and Lieberman Friday morning for a meeting?
- Will follow up on Daalder, Kessler, Rahm and women's lunch/dinner.

I want to meet w people Thursday night so pls don't schedule anything after Capricia's event.

On Friday, can Kessler be moved to next week?

Rahm told me there may be a small mtg w the POTUS on Sunday morning so I may need to take plane back either late Sat night or early Sun am. Also Rahm said he wanted to see me alone sometime before that Sunday mtg. Pls follow up on both mtgs.

If there is a Sunday am mtg w POTUS, I will also try to go to the Ling lunch.

Why are there no early staff mtgs listed for Thurs the 10th and Fri the 11th on the line?

I see the Iran dinner on the schedule but not a women's policy lunch or dinner. Can we do that Monday the 14th or Thursday the 17th? I want to do it before the Development speech.

Talk w Cheryl and others about doing the development speech in NY combined w "town hall" at a college or other venue on Monday the 21st (which would make Philippe happy).

What is a Charter School?

A charter school is an independently operated public school that is free to attend.

How are students enrolled?

Manhattan Charter School conducts a lottery in early April 2009 to determine seats to be offered to applicants for the 2009-2010 school year. Prospective parents must submit applications by April 1, 2009 for entry into the 2009-2010 lottery.

Choosing the Right School

At MCS, we know choosing the right elementary school for your child involves many considerations. Will the educational program cultivate your child's growth as a scholar? Will the culture and environment support your child's evolution as an individual? Is the school a safe, friendly and supportive community of which you want to be an active part?

A Story of Success

In Manhattan Charter School's first year of testing, 100% of our third graders passed both the English Language Arts and Math exams. No other charter school in the state had these results. At MCS, we are committed to providing

School Culture and Environment

- Our students know it's okay to be smart, to be thoughtful, and to achieve.
- We foster a culture of high expectations and value a strong sense of community and ethics.
- In-room libraries, listening and other learning centers, and a meeting area for whole group instruction cultivate the talents and abilities of each child.
- MCS creates a partnership among parents, students and educators.

Mission Statement:

MCS will prepare its students to achieve high academic levels in the four core academic subject areas and music, to communicate effectively in verbal, mathematical and musical languages, and to apply critical thinking processes and ethical standards to learning, living and problem solving.

Educational Program

learning including reasoning, information processing, memory, and other cognitive skills.

- Rigorous, standards-driven instruction focusing on critical thinking processes in literacy, math, social studies, science and music.
- Curriculum is aligned with state and national standards and each child's learning is evaluated on an individual basis.
- Uses humanities as a vehicle for teaching students to make logical connections between what they learn in school and the way society actually functions.

Music Program

- Music at MCS is considered the "fifth core discipline" and all students receive music instruction each and every day.
- At Manhattan Charter School we believe that music is one of the strongest tools or lenses that students can use to understand one another and the world around them.
- Program is designed to reinforce, develop, and enhance all areas of
